Willard I. Emerson, Investment Banker In Ithaca, Dies at 70

12/4/66

Special to The New York Times

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 3—Willard Ingham Emerson, an investment banker and former vice president of Cornell University, died today in Tompkins County Memorial Hospital. His age was 70.

Mr. Emerson resigned in 1951 as a general partner of Hemphill, Noyes, Graham, Parsons & Co. in New York to become a vice president of Cornell in charge of development. He also was executive director of the Cornell Council, an organization of corporations that help to support the university.

He resigned his Cornell posts two years later and since then had managed the Ithaca branch of Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes, the investment firm's successor. He was also a director of several industrial companies.

Mr. Emerson was born in Ithaca, where his father, Dr. Alfred Emerson, was an archaeologist and a professor at Cornell. He was a descendant of Jonathan Edwards, the clergyman, and of Samuel D. Ingham, Andrew Jackson's Secretary of State.

Mr. Emerson interrupted studies at Cornell during World War I and, after officer training, served in combat in France with the 311th Infantry Regiment. For taking command of his battalion as the only surviving officer, and for leading an important advance near Sedan, he won a battlefield promotion to captain and the Distinguished Service Cross.

Mr. Emerson later was graduated as a member of the Cornell class of 1919, of which he was president, and did graduate work at Columbia and Cambridge Universities.

Surviving are his widow, the former Ethel Teresa Mole; 2 sons, Jonathan E. and Willard I. Jr.; 2 daughters, Mrs. Paul B. McMahon and Mrs. Ann Emerson Weeks; a brother, Alfred; 2 sisters, Edith Emerson and Mrs. Bosiswar Sen, and 13 grandchildren.

J. STEWART BAKER, BANKER, IS DEAD

Chase Manhattan's First Head Retired in 1957

J. Stewart Baker, former president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, died Monday at Morristown (N. J.) Memorial Hospital after a short illness. He was 73 years old.

Known throughout his career as a bankers' banker, Mr. Baker was chairman of the board of the Bank of the Manhattan Company when it was merged on March 31, 1955, with the Chase National Bank, to form the second-largest commercial banking institution in the nation.

Mr. Baker, whose subdued attire and dignified manner marked him as a banker, became president and chairman of the executive committee of the merged institution, which started out with deposits in excess of $6.8-billion. He retired as president on Dec. 31, 1957, but continued as a director of Chase Manhattan until Aug. 11, 1965.

Learned in Lowly Post

The son and grandson of bankers, Mr. Baker once remarked:

"After I left Princeton in 1915 and became a bank messenger my knowledge of banking was zero. In the few months I served as a runner I learned more than I ever did either before or since."

However he acquired his banking knowledge, he followed in his father's footsteps. His father, Stephen Baker, was president of the Bank of the Manhattan Company when J. Stewart was born, in Lawrence, New York, on Aug. 6, 1893.

The young graduate, whom classmates chose as the handsomest man in his class, moved from the messengers' ranks to the trust department. At the outbreak of World War I he joined the Navy as an ensign. He was discharged in January, 1919.

After the war he returned to the Bank of the Manhattan Company, which traced its origin to Aaron Burr. J. (for John) Stewart Baker's great-grandfather, Stephen Baker the elder, was one of the original stockholders in the bank when it was chartered by the State of New York in 1799.

Promotions Were Rapid

Mr. Baker became an assistant cashier in the Union Square office of the Bank of the Manhattan Company in 1919, and was elected a vice president the following year.

In 1922 he became a director of the bank and moved into the main office at 40 Wall Street, serving in the trust department.

In 1927, at the age of 34 he was elected president of the bank, succeeding his father, who had established the family precedent by becoming president himself at the age of 34.

The young, ruggedly built new bank president, his curly black hair just beginning to whiten, found rose-filled baskets covering his desk on his first day in office. Peering from between them he told a visiting reporter:

"Banking today has to compete for the services of capable youth with several other lines of endeavor . . . but if a young man is willing to stand the gaff and 'saw wood' for a few years the opportunities are excellent and the rewards ample.

"I am," he continued, "just an ordinary human being. I come to work in the morning and go home to my family in the evening. And occasionally I enjoy a game of golf when the weather is good."

Chosen Chairman in 1932

Mr. Baker was elected chairman of the board of the bank in 1932, a position he held until the merger with Chase National in 1955.

In addition to banking, Mr. Baker was active in many other corporate and civic affairs. He had been a director of the Great Northern Railway Company, president of the board of trustees of St. Luke's Hospital in New York, and chairman of the Greater New York Fund.

Mr. Baker, who made his home in Short Hills, N. J., married Marianne L. Foote of Mendham, N. J., in 1915.

His clubs included the Down Town Association, the Union Club and the Union League Club of New York, and the Baltusrol Golf Club of Springfield, N. J.

Surviving, in addition to his widow, are a son, J. Stewart Baker Jr. of Bethlehem, Pa., president of the Alpha Portland Cement Company of Easton, Pa., and two daughters, Mrs. Richard E. Baiter of Darien, Conn., and Mrs. Serge J. Hill of Short Hills.

A funeral service will be held at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Morristown, at 11 A.M. tomorrow.

DEDICATION
MEMORIAL WINDOW

Reverend Sir, we present to you this window to be set apart with thanksgiving for the service of Christ's holy Church.

PRIEST: All things come of thee, O Lord.
PEOPLE: And of thine own have we given thee.
PRIEST: Prosper thou the work of our hands
upon us;
PEOPLE: O prosper thou our handiwork.
PRIEST: Show thy servants thy work.
PEOPLE: And their children thy glory.
PRIEST: Let us bless the Lord.
PEOPLE: It is meet and right so to do.

PRIEST: Thanksgiving and honor and glory be unto thee, Almighty God, that from ancient times thou hast put it into the hearts of men to make offerings for thy service, and hast been pleased at all times to receive them at their hands. Mercifully accept this window which we devoutly offer and set apart to thy glory and in memory of Hugh M.
Quigley, and grant that this gift may be found worthy through thy blessing to magnify thy Name, to benefit the Church, and to minister grace and joy to those who rightfully use it; through Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom, with thee and the Holy Spirit, be all praise and dominion for ever and ever.
Amen.

With faith in Jesus Christ, we dedicate this window to the glory of God and in memory of Hugh M. Quigley for the use of the holy Church, In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

PRIEST: Behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east;
PEOPLE: And the glory of the Lord filled
the house.

Let us pray

O God, who hast filled the world with the radiance of thy glory; Grant that as the light shines through this window in the splendour of many colours, so our lives may show forth the beauty of thy manifold gifts of grace; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Almighty God, we remember this day before thee thy faithful servant, Hugh, and we pray that, having opened to him the gates of larger life, thou wilt receive him more and more into thy joyful service; that he may win, with thee and thy servants everywhere, the eternal victory; through Jesus Christ
our Lord. Amen.

Blessed be thy Name, O Lord, that it hath pleased thee to put into the hearts of thy servants to offer this gift for thy worship.
Remember them, O Lord, for good, and grant that all who shall enjoy the benefit of this pious work may show forth their thankfulness to thee by making a right use of the same; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Dr. George S. King Dead at 88; L.I. Physician and a Novelist

Special to The New York Times

BAY SHORE, L. I., June 13—Dr. George S. King, a general medical practitioner, novelist, and operator of his own hospital, died today in his home at 32 Maple Avenue here. He was 88 years old.

Dr. King had been in practice from 1901 until his retirement a year and a half ago. He also found time during his career to write the historical novel "The Last Slaver," which was adapted for the movies in 1937 by William Faulkner. The film, "Slave Ship," starred Warner Baxter, Wallace Beery, Mickey Rooney, George Sanders and Joseph Schildkraut.

Dr. King also wrote his autobiography "Doctor on a Bicycle," published by Rinehart in 1958, which gave an account of a general practitioner's life in the early days of this century.

A Special Party

In 1952 Dr. King celebrated his 50th anniversary of practice at a lawn party at the South Bay Golf Club, attended by 800 of the 4,000 babies he had delivered until then.

"I bet you don't remember me, Doc," was a typical greeting to the tall, ruddy-faced physician as he stood on the receiving line and shook hands until his right arm ached three hours later.

"You've changed somewhat since I met you," was the physician's usual reply. There was about a ton of food at the party, several cases of champagne and a hired band to the music of which he danced with a pretty girl he had delivered 16 years previously.

Dr. King was born in Brooklyn. He was educated at the Patchogue (L. I.) High School and New York Homeopathic Medical College (now New York Medical College), receiving his M.D. in 1899. He served as an interne on Blackwells (now Welfare) Island, New York, and then assisted an uncle who was a physician.

His private hospital, at which many of the babies were delivered, is called Dr. King's Hospital. It is at 11 Maple Avenue here.

AUSTIN L. SANDS, EARLY AVIATOR, 79

Newport Resident Decorated in 2 World Wars Dies

Special to The New York Times

NEWPORT, R. I., May 30—

Austin Ledyard Sands, an early aviator and a veteran of both World Wars, died here today at his home, "Castle Hill." He was 79 years old.

Mr. Sands was born in Newport, a descendant of James Sands, one of the city's founders in 1637. He was educated at St. George's School and Princeton University, class of '09.

He founded the first Boy Scout troop in Newport in 1910 and was Rhode Island Boy Scout commissioner that year.

When the United States entered the war in 1917, Mr. Sands, an amateur pilot, was commissioned a lieutenant in the Aviation Section of the Army Signal Corps and taught advanced flying. While stationed at Ellington Field, Tex., he established a new altitude record without oxygen at 24,000 feet.

After the war he joined the engineering department of the Curtiss Airplane Company, then transferred to the Witterman Company as general manager. The latter built the Barling bombers for the Army and the first air mail planes.

When the concern was sold to the Fokker Company, he left it to enter the real-estate business in New York. Later he engaged in undersea salvage operations with Simon Lake of submarine fame.

When World War II broke out, Mr. Sands was commissioned a major in the Army Air Forces. He commanded an Air Service Group at Martash Heath, England, and later was executive officer of the 356th Fighter Group, being released in 1946 with the rank of colonel.

His decorations included five combat stars, the Free French Croix de Guerre with gold star and a Presidential Unit Citation.

He was twice married, first to Mariana Fullam of New York and later to the late Gwendolyn Brown. He had made his home in Newport for the last 20 years.

Mr. Sands is survived by two sons, Frederick P. of Ridgewood, N. J., vice president of the Grace Line, and Austin L., Jr. of New York; two sisters, Mrs. Julia Sands Dickson of Newport and Mrs. J. Harlin O'Connell of New York and Newport, and five grandchildren.

PIERRE BOAL, 70, A FORMER ENVOY

5/25/66
Ambassador to Nicaragua and Bolivia in '40's Dies

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, May 24—Pierre de Lagarde Boal, former Minister to Nicaragua and Ambassador to Bolivia, died today in Paris at the age of 70. He retired from the State Department in 1948, ending a foreign service career that had begun in 1919.

Mr. Boal was appointed Minister to Nicaragua by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1941. The next year, while serving as Ambassador to Bolivia, he was accused of having attempted to impede the passage into law of a Bolivian labor code creating more favorable conditions for mine workers.

He was subsequently cleared by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who said the ambassador had advised him that "he once made inquiries about the effects of the proposed labor code on production costs of the strategic materials we were securing from Bolivia."

Mr. Boal was born in France of American parents. During World War I he was a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, and afterward joined the State Department. By 1931 he had become chief of the Western European division.

During his career, Mr. Boal has served as a diplomatic secretary or counselor at embassies in Mexico City, Belgrade, Warsaw, Bern, Lima and Ottawa.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Jeanne Dementhon Boal, and two daughters, Mrs. Blair Lee 3d and Mrs. Gaston D'Harcourt.

AMORY L. HASKELL, TURF FIGURE, DIES

4/17/66
Monmouth Head Was 72—
Made Fortune in Glass

Amory L. Haskell, founder and president of Monmouth Park Race Track in New Jersey, died of a heart attack yesterday in New York Hospital. He was 72 years old.

Since Mr. Haskell acquired his first broodmare in 1925, the pastures of Woodland Farm, his 700-acre estate at Red Bank, N.J., have rarely been without a crop of young thoroughbreds.

"Racing must have people who can afford to stay in the game without worrying about money," Mr. Haskell told an interviewer two years ago. He fulfilled that requirement with ease.

Mr. Haskell was especially fond of fox hunting, and he was for many years a guiding figure in the National Horse Show.

Mr. Haskell was born in New York, attended the Pomfret School and graduated from Princeton University in 1916.

He started his career in industry with the New Jersey Zinc Company, but quit in May, 1917 to join the Navy. He became a Naval aviator, earning pilot's license No. 168. This made him one of the Bald Eagles, the first 200 Navy pilots.

Headed Motor Sales Abroad

After World War I, he joined the General Motors Export Company and soon became vice president and general manager. He headed the operations of this sales organization in 25 countries.

Mr. Haskell resigned in 1925 to organize the Triplex Safety Glass Company of North America. He introduced safety glass, already used on European automobiles, to American car manufacturers. He sold out at a tremendous profit in 1932 to the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

Although he continued to maintain various business interests, most of Mr. Haskell's energy since then had been devoted to encouraging the breeding of thoroughbreds.

He was a devotee of steeplechasing. That phase of the sport helped bring him into racing, just as it had some of his Monmouth County neighbors—Mrs. Payne Whitney, Joseph E. Widener, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, Mrs. Ogden Phipps and others.

Hunt meetings provided the stimulus.

"That's how I become interested," Mr. Haskell once explained. "And from breeding hunters, I switched to breeding thoroughbred hunters and then I was in the sport all the way."

"We have the Monmouth County Hunt down my way and every year we have a party for the 519 farmers over whose land we hunt."

Hunts Bring in Patrons

On another occasion, he dropped the remark about racing needing wealthy patrons.

"You find them in the hunt meets," he said. "They get interested and before you know it they are at the track."

Mr. Haskell was instrumental in getting the Monmouth Park track built. He had been president since its opening in 1946.

He is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Blanche Angell Smith, whom he married in 1959, 12 years after the death of his first wife, the former Annette Tilford, and a son and four daughters by his first wife: Amory L. Haskell Jr., Mrs. Alejandro DeTomaso, Mrs. John C. Ellis, Mrs. Edward B. Ross and Mrs. Charles H. Jones Jr. A funeral service will be held at 11 A.M. Friday in St. George's by the River Episcopal Church, Rumson, N. J.

In Memoriam

JOHN E. DAVIS DIES; A STOCKBROKER, 66

John Ethelbert Davis, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, died yesterday of a seizure while en route from his home at 1165 Park Avenue to his office at 25 Broad Street. He was 66 years old and also had a residence in Ridgefield, Conn.

Mr. Davis was a son of John Hagy Davis, who founded Billings, Olcott & Co., and joined the stock exchange in 1869. John E. Davis became a member of the concern in 1922 after his graduation from Princeton University the previous year. He was a partner in the concern until its recent dissolution. As a member of the exchange he had continued to clear his business through Laidlaw & Co.

Mr. Davis was a former vestryman of Grace Episcopal Church and a member of the Union Club and the Stock Exchange Luncheon Club. A trustee of the Browning School, of which he was a graduate, he was regional representative of the Annual Giving of six classes of Princeton University. He was a member of the Ridgefield Library Board.

John E. Davis, Stockbroker

John E. Davis, 60, stockbroker with offices at 25 Broad St. and a member of the New York Stock Exchange, collapsed of a heart attack yesterday on a subway platform and died en route to a hospital. He lived at 1165 Park Ave. and Ridgefield, Conn.

Mr. Davis was born at 24 Washington Square North in a dwelling that still stands, a son of John H. and Mrs. Ethel Jackson Davis. He was graduated from Browning School and Princeton University in 1921.

He was regional alumni representative of the annual giving for his class at Princeton, a former vestryman of Grace Church, a member of the board of the Ridgefield Library and a director of the Ridgefield branch of the Fairfield County Trust Co. He was a member of the Union Club and the New York Stock Exchange Luncheon Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Maude Bouvier Davis; a son, John Hagy Davis; and a daughter, Miss Maude Sergeant Davis.
